Taylor Management Announces New Chief Operating Officer, Liz Comando, PCAM, CMCA

Whippany, NJ – Taylor Management Company, Leaders in Residential Property Management, today announced the new hire of Liz Comando as Chief Operating Officer, effective immediately. This represents the union of two of the preeminent forces in Home Owner Association Services in New Jersey. Liz is the former Vice President of Towne & Country Management and holds her Certifications in PCAM (Professional Community Association Manager) and CMCA (Certified Manager of Community Associations Institute).

Since 1989, she has focused on managing condominium associations and cooperative in New Jersey, specializing in luxury hi-rise buildings. “I am really looking forward to my work with Taylor Management Company. They have the infrastructure, experience and scale that is entirely unique in this sector. We are going to do great things together... in managing large transitions, capital projects and growing the business that Taylor Management has mastered.”

Liz is a graduate of SUNY Cortland with a Bachelor of Arts Degree and has over 25 years of experience in community management. She has raised money for numerous charitable organizations including Cancer Research and Hudson Cradle. She has served on the Board of Directors of Fairmont Housing Corporation (Division of Women Rising), a non-profit organization that provides affordable housing for women headed households.

Taylor Management Company was founded in 1992 and today presides over more than 150 residential communities with an aggregate annual budget of over $400 million. “We deeply care about your quality of life and the investment that your home represents. Our skilled management and accounting personnel meet regularly to assess and discuss individual properties from varying viewpoints and perspectives. Our managers are directed by executive leadership who regularly attend board meeting, monitor the financial well-being of each community and are involved with the management of each community on a daily basis. Taylor Management is proud to provide an extensive and superior suite of association services, great depth of experience and a team of qualified managers that develop an individual plan to best meet the physical, fiscal and operational need of each community,” said Jeff Logan, Director of Business Development and Client Services at Taylor.
